McIntosh Park Conservation Area

6 Cockburn Street, Berwick, Ontario

Rich in Community History

In 2005, SNC purchased the vacant lot which is now McIntosh Park.

The property officially opened as a memorial park to the public in 2007. The on-site gazebo portrays a monument to the pioneers and founding fathers of the area.

The development of McIntosh Park was due in part by local community support. To this day, SNC gratefully acknowledges the support of community volunteers, specifically the McIntosh Park Committee, for their assistance in the care and maintenance of the park.

Tree Dedication Program

Many of the trees found in McIntosh Park have been donated through the SNC and McIntosh Memorial Park Committee's Tree Dedication Program. The program allows for trees to be planted and maintained by way of donation, to commemorate loved ones while demonstrating commitment to the environment and the local community.

A Natural Gathering Spot

Nestled in the heart of Berwick, McIntosh Park is the perfect location for community gatherings.

This popular picnic location is the home to many community events throughout the year.

Visitors can enjoy a peaceful stroll along the tree-lined walking trail, or spend a relaxing afternoon underneath the picturesque gazebo.

For avid geocachers, McIntosh Park contains a number of caches that can be discovered.
